Arterritory | online resource for Baltic, Scandinavian and Russian art and culture

Arterritory.com is an art and culture website in Latvian, Russian, and English, which focuses on Baltic, Scandinavian, and Russian art and its manifestations elsewhere in the world. You can find plenty of information on arts and culture events, debate and news from Russia, Nordic and Baltic countries.

The website's target audience are readers interested in contemporary cultural phenomena and who want to make their life exciting and interesting. The creators are convinced that art is an open world, one that provides a place not only for professionals, but also for connoisseurs and lovers of art.

Arterritory.com will become your eyes and ears for looking into artists' studios, listening to their opinions, and documenting their participation in the most important art events. The website is your discussion partner with whom you can exchange opinions about exhibits and art and design events in Riga, Helsinki, St. Petersburg, Vilnius, Tallinn, Copenhagen, Moscow, and anywhere else. Arterritory.com is also your calendar of important occasions, where someone has already marked all the “must-see” events. We understand that art today is not a closed space; it interacts and connects with other fields of culture. Precisely for this reason, the website also offers information about cinema, design, fashion, architecture, and books.
