culture360.org officially supports the 7th Edition of the Angkor Photo Festival \(APF\), and will attend the event in Cambodia this month (19-26 November). The APF is one of the major platforms of visibility for young contemporary photographers in Asia. In the framework of the festival, culture360.org and APF are co-producing the series “Visual Perspectives”, a photographic dialogue between Asians and European photographers. The concept of the Angkor Photo Festival is to avoid a themed program, but to propose to discover - or rediscover - artists from all over the world. Consistent with the festival’s mission of highlighting emerging Asian photographers, 70 of the 110 photographers exhibiting in 2011 are from Asia. The 2011 program of 11 outdoor and indoor exhibitions and 8 evenings of outdoor slideshows is curated by Françoise Callier, the Program Coordinator of the APF, in consultation with a 9-member international committee.
