Future Platform - Matchmaking Conference

 futurearchitecture Following the Future Architecture Platform call for ideas, candidates selected by the platform members, Future Architecture alumni and the public will appear at the Matchmaking Conference on February 16-18 at the Museum of Architecture and Design (MAO), Ljubljana, Slovenia. The Future Architecture Call for Ideas 2017 attracted 594 emerging creatives from 56 countries who responded to the call with 337 ideas, looking for answers to the question—what will dictate future developments in the field of architecture. New ideas from architects, designers, artists and curators serve to identify and open up a wide range of future challenges for the discipline, ranging from re-thinking design education and new approaches to revitalizing derelict buildings and facilities to establishing new models like the fair-building scheme. These proposals confront the current, established ideas and theories related to architecture and aim to create an alternative aesthetic sensibility and system of values. You can view all the submitted ideas on the Future Architecture Platform. The selected participants will meet in person with the 18 platform members, where they will personally present and pitch their ideas and visions to both the platform members and the general public. Based on their presentation of ideas, interests and views on architecture, the candidates will be matched with members of the platform and become a part of the Future Architecture platform program taking place all around Europe.
