London | International Translation Day 2012 symposium

Launched in 2010, International Translation Day has become a unique annual event and staging post within the translation community. The ITD Symposium in London brings industry professionals and artists together to explore new ideas and initiatives. The ITD symposium is a collaborative venture, established and organised by several dedicated partners: the British Centre for Literary Translation, the British Council, English PEN, Free Word, Literature Across Frontiers, the London Book Fair, the Translators Association, Wales Literature Exchange and Words Without Borders.
