Aichi Triennale 2013 | curatorial competition | open call

Aichi Triennale 2013 seeks exhibition projects for the Choja-machi district as in 2010, with the aim of providing an open platform to artists and curators who are actively taking on challenges in the art world.

The venue, Choja-machi district, has a distinct landscape and atmosphere with many time-honored wholesale stores. Since the war, the district has developed into one of the three great textile wholesale districts in Japan. This Curatorial Competition is designed to create places with cultural and historical diversity intertwined, all across the district.

Energetic projects related to contemporary art, but unpublished and original (Solo exhibitions recommended from others or from applicants themselves are acceptable.)

About 10 selected projects will be realized as exhibition by the applicants during the period of Aichi Triennale 2013.

Application period: Friday March 8 to Friday April 12
