Asialink Arts 2017 Residencies | call to Australian arts professionals

 asialink-email-blast-header-image

Applications for the Asialink Arts 2017 Residency Program are open, inviting Australian arts professionals to apply for a range of residencies (different models, hosts, arts disciplines, countries etc.) across Asia. Deadline extended to October 3 for applications.

The aim of Asialink's Arts Residency Program is to create meaningful and enduring relationships between individuals and organisations in Australia and Asia. Asialink works in partnership with arts residency centres in the region to realise this goal. AsialinkArts Residencies are professional development opportunities, aimed at being mutually beneficial to both host and resident.

Since 1991 Asialink's Arts Residency Program has provided professional development opportunities for arts professionals working in and across art forms, in exchange for the sharing of skills, knowledge and networks with local host communities. AsialinkArts Residencies are innovative, flexible and supportive, and are grounded in personal and enduring relationships. The program promotes sustained cross-cultural dialogue by facilitating reciprocal residencies and trialing new models of engagement.

Eligibility

Applications are welcome from Australian arts professionals who meet the following criteria. If you do not meet these criteria, you are ineligible to apply:

- Australian citizens or those who have Permanent Residency status.
- A proven record of professional artistic activity over at least three years.
- Residencies are not for academic study or research, paid study leave or ARC-affiliated projects. Students enrolled in tertiary institutions at the time of their proposed residency are not eligible to apply. Students cannot defer their studies to undertake Asialink Arts Residencies. This applies to PhD candidates. You can only apply if the course you are undertaking will be complete at the time of your proposed residency.
