Mongolia | Nomadic Residency Programme 2025

Red Corner International Residency has launched a two-week nomadic residency programme for art practitioners around the world, from either 14 to 28 July or 1 to 15 August 2025, in Ulaanbaatar, Mongolia.

The residency offers an opportunity to explore the contemporaneity and the ancient living tradition coexisting today in Mongolia. The programme offers participants specific areas for research, including the contemporary art scene in the capital city of Ulaanbaatar and an extraordinary nomadic lifestyle and wilderness in the countryside of Mongolia, to be facilitated through the organisation of field trips, especially designed for artists, writers, curators, and other practitioners.

It is a self-funded residency programme designed for those seeking new experience, an inspiration source for their artistic practices and networking opportunities. Residency staff will provide all necessary support for artists applying for a grant to cover program-related expenses.
