Nordic Culture Fund Globus Call for international collaborations

The Nordic Culture Fund's Globus programme is calling for applications from artists and cultural actors from all over the world for projects that promote long-term collaborations and networks that extend beyond the Nordic region.

Globus Call focuses on creating across cultural, geographical and disciplinary boundaries. Through Globus Call, Nordic Culture Fund supports artistic and cultural collaborations which in their practice aim to break down traditional barriers and work across cultural, social, historical, geographical or professional boundaries. The programme encourages the building of cross-cutting collaborations and networks that seek new perspectives and develop dialogue across contexts.

The programme is open to projects that work with experimental approaches and methods, and which strive to explore interactions between the local and the global. The intention is to meet artists in the contexts and positions in which they find themselves, and to support them with trust and a willingness to take risks.

The projects must be rooted in artistic and/or cultural milieux, but may draw upon other professional fields and traditions.
