The Center for Khmer Studies (CKS) promotes research, teaching and public service in the social sciences, arts and humanities in Cambodia and the Mekong region.

Founded in 1998, CKS fosters understanding of Cambodia and the Mekong region by:

- Promote research and international scholarly exchange by programmes that increase understanding of Cambodia and its region
- Strengthen Cambodia's cultural and educational structures and integrate Cambodian scholars in regional and international exchange
- Partner with colleges and universities in Cambodia, the US and beyond

CKS is a private American Overseas Research Center supported by a consortium of educational institutions, scholars and individuals.
