Cinestesias is a Spanish association of young people whose main activities are focused on cinema and the audiovisual arts. Its main goal is to promote the culture of cinema as a vehicle for diversity and open discussion, as well as the expression of new, younger perspectives. The association organises activities around engaged films and discussions about the social questions they (re)present (civil wars, women, people in jail, marginal artists, etc.). Cinestesias also works on documentary film projects and produce a cinema magazine, creating a space for free expression and the analysis of films.
