elOjocojo

El Ojo Cojo is a network to promote the exchange and promotion of intercultural cinema, as well as promoting the participation of festivals and film festivals.

El Ojo Cojo is a young, non-profit organisation that seeks to build spaces for cultural integration with a gender focus, based on knowledge of reality and active participation in society. Their organisational structure is based on the dynamic articulation of technical, professional and artistic knowledge for the creation of programmes that address the complexity of contemporary reality.

Their work focuses mainly on local community contexts. Their team is made up of a multicultural group of professionals from different artistic, social and technical disciplines, as well as the constant contribution of volunteers. They work both in Madrid town halls and in cultural spaces throughout Spain.

They are committed to working towards cultural integration and gender equality in communities, using creativity and teamwork as fundamental tools. They are open to collaborations and alliances that allow them to continue growing and expanding their work throughout the Spanish territory.
