The English Ballet Theatre Cambodia, established in 2012 under the name Cambodia School of Ballet Phnom Penh, is an arts organisation that provides generative educational and vocational dance training for children and adults in Cambodia.

Founder and Director Stephen Bimson started to branch out into community dance practice while completing his training at Rambert. Inspired by the transformative power dance had on his own life, he began to see the deeper potential of the artform and now wishes to provide a space where others are given the same opportunity. Born from this inspiration, Stephen started the community outreach division which provides children, in residential care, with the chance to participate in a wide variety of dynamic dance and theatre training.
