courses for creative and cultural professionals

The British Council has developed a series of free online courses for creative and cultural professionals. Designed with input from creative hub leaders from Southeast Asia and the UK, these courses are for creative practitioners looking to update their skills.

Facilitating Creative Collaborations

Improve the quality of online community engagement and collaborations. This course provides tips and resources to enable creative practitioners to nurture a deeper sense of community online.

Responsible Design for Meaningful Experiences

Discover new ways to incorporate diversity, inclusion, accessibility, and sustainability into creative practices and design. The course is perfect for creative professionals working in graphic design, product, furniture, service, architecture, technology, art, and performance.

Digital Community Strategy and Management

Learn new ways to engage and maintain communities online, building on existing patterns of peer-support and collective sensemaking.

Ways to Monetise Creative Services

Explore innovative ways to digitalise and monetise creative work – from monetising hybrid revenue streams, to effectively translating creative work online.

Bringing your Training Online

Improve your online skills training and learn the steps in a typical design process to develop original, bespoke digital learning content.
