Salzburg Global Forum for Young Cultural Innovators III | report online

The report from the third annual Salzburg Global Forum for Young Cultural Innovators is now available online to read, download and share.

The Salzburg Global Forum for Young Cultural Innovators (YCI Forum), is an annual series that supports emerging young artists and cultural actors who are using innovative practices to catalyze urban transformation in their communities.

Our biggest and most diverse cohort of sixty-four young cultural leaders from sixteen different cities, including six new hubs, gathered in the Schloss Leopoldskron, Salzburg, Austria in mid-October 2016. Salzburg Global was fortunate enough to host future innovators from Albania, Argentina, Australia, Austria, Bulgaria, Greece, Japan, the Mekong Delta

Region, the Philippines, South Africa, South Korea, Russia, and the United States.

This group of young leaders spent a week in each other's company, exploring concepts on how to foster strong culture in order to transform communities. The YCI Fellows, passionate about the growth in their local hubs, connected with like-minded individuals to spread their innovative thinking with a global network. With a revitalized energy towards their work, the YCI Fellows returned to their communities with new perspectives and ideas on their role as leading innovators.
