Metronome Prague is a 4-day music and art event that provides visitors with a unique experience right in the centre of Prague.

They focus on all ages and genres and on the latest in contemporary music and the most vibrant music from the past. Besides foreign stars, the programme also features domestic artists who usually offer special concerts designed specifically for the Metronome Festival Prague. They also place great importance on excellent sound quality, light show and comfortable facilities for visitors of the festival.

In addition to the four-day event in June, METRONOME PRAGUE brings music fans (and not only them) several others throughout the year. In the past, one of the highlights was the coveted music party, NÁROD SOBĚ („NATION TO ITSELF“), in February 2021, when 40 musical projects performed at the National Theatre in one evening under strict quarantine measures. The auditorium had to be empty, but more than 1.5 million viewers watched the live broadcast on Czech Television.

The Metronome Prague festival itself is the first international music and art event to be held in Prague, with the 6th edition kicking off on 22 June 2023 at the Prague Exhibition Centre.
